Scott County Indiana Quality of Life: Health Care

Residents of Scott County, Indiana have access to a first class healthcare system. Virtually every medical specialty is represented. The growing reputation for leading-edge medical research and support services, as well as excellent health care services draws businesses, researchers, teachers, physicians and patients from throughout the region.

Scott County, Indiana is home to Scott Memorial Hospital, a Jewish Hospital Health Network partner. This partnership has allowed Scott Memorial Hospital access to new high-tech equipment and cutting edge technology usually not available to small hospitals. Keeping up-to-date on new medical procedures helps in the recruitment of additional primary care and specialty physicians, as well as in helping to provide additional training for medical staff.

Scott Memorial provides advanced medical care with well-trained teams of health care professionals representing a variety of specialties including the latest in diagnostic and surgical techniques. Emergency services include conventional rescue ambulances, and Air Intensive Care Units supported by both helicopters, and Scott Memorial has a 24/7 physician staffed emergency department.
